

Lewis Hale

Biography

Lewis Hale is a Promega senior consultant with more than 25 years of business experience in the financial services sector. Prior to joining Promega, Lewis served as President and CEO of a reinsurance services company that he started for an international insurance broker. Lewis also served previously as Executive Vice President and COO for the second largest reinsurance intermediary in the United States.

Lewis has extensive practical experience in starting and growing businesses. His expertise includes strategic and operational planning, internal communication/teambuilding, and executive coaching. He also works with clients on competency profiling, corporate culture and organizational alignment.

Lewis has a Bachelor of Arts in economics from Whitman College and is currently on their Board of Overseers, serving as Vice Chairman of the Development Committee.